

East of Eden Natural Screens in Wooden and GRP troughs

There are many situations such as terraces, balconies, and roof gardens where there is no open ground available. For such situations we have developed troughs with support posts and durable, high tenacity windbreak webbing to attach the screening plants. We can supply both stylish wooden troughs, as featured below or constructed of a specialised commercial polycarbonate (GRP).

To optimise healthy plant growth, they can be supplied or installed by us with a high quality irrigation system.

East of Eden troughs are constructed to made specifically to accommodate most of our instant natural screening options including climbers, hedging species, bamboos and even pleached panels. Our wooden troughs can be finished in a range of wood stains. All our troughs can be made to dimensions and shapes to suit your project.

Our GRP troughs can be supplied in any colour from an RAL chart. All our troughs can be made to other dimensions and shapes if required to suit your project.

Our bespoke troughs can be left exposed or concealed with overhanging plants as shown below

Another option is to clad the troughs to create a stylish finished effect
